APPENDIX B: e-Gateway Taxonomy

1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 PURPOSE OF THIS DOCUMENT

This document is the initial high level Information Architecture design for Herefordshire Partnership's e-Gateway online initiative. The purpose of this document is to:

- Capture output from initial workshops on content requirements.
- Define the initial taxonomy for the e-Gateway.
- Define the high-level site structure for the Herefordshire Partnership e-Gateway and Youth Portal.

The e-Gateway taxonomy and site structure for the e-Gateway and Youth Portal are based on the outputs from initial workshops and best practice based on similar sites being developed under the Government's initiative to allow all public services to be delivered electronically. The taxonomy and initial site structure have been designed to be an extensible framework to accommodate future modules, applications and target audiences. The site structure and taxonomy is expected to evolve throughout the lifecycle of the project.

1.2 NEXT STEPS

To take the initial Information Architecture design forward there is a requirement for a series of workshops with key content stakeholders to identify in greater detail the content areas to be included in the e-Gateway and Youth Portal. The output from these sessions will drive the final site structure and the taxonomy documentation based on the work carried out to date.

2. E-GATEWAY SITE STRUCTURE

2.1 APPROACH

The approach taken to the site structure of the e-Gateway is based on the following assumptions:

- The site structure will be driven by online services but will be released to an internal audience before launched to the public.
- Partnership services will be associated with a user's 'life events' such as birth, starting school or moving home.
- A key requirement is that users should be able to navigate to key online services by following a minimum number of links.
- Content will be provided that provides information for local residents and business.
- Information on the partnership and events happening in the local area will be available.

Appendix A captures the output from the initial workshops. The content requirements focus on the life events of birth and bereavement. Initial content requirements are also captured in Appendix B, which defines the initial e-Gateway taxonomy.

The taxonomy document does not include all content, but represents a categorisation of the content areas that might be available on the e-Gateway. The taxonomy document does not directly translate into a site structure.

2.2 FIGURE 1.0 - E-GATEWAY SITE STRUCTURE CONCEPTUAL DESIGN

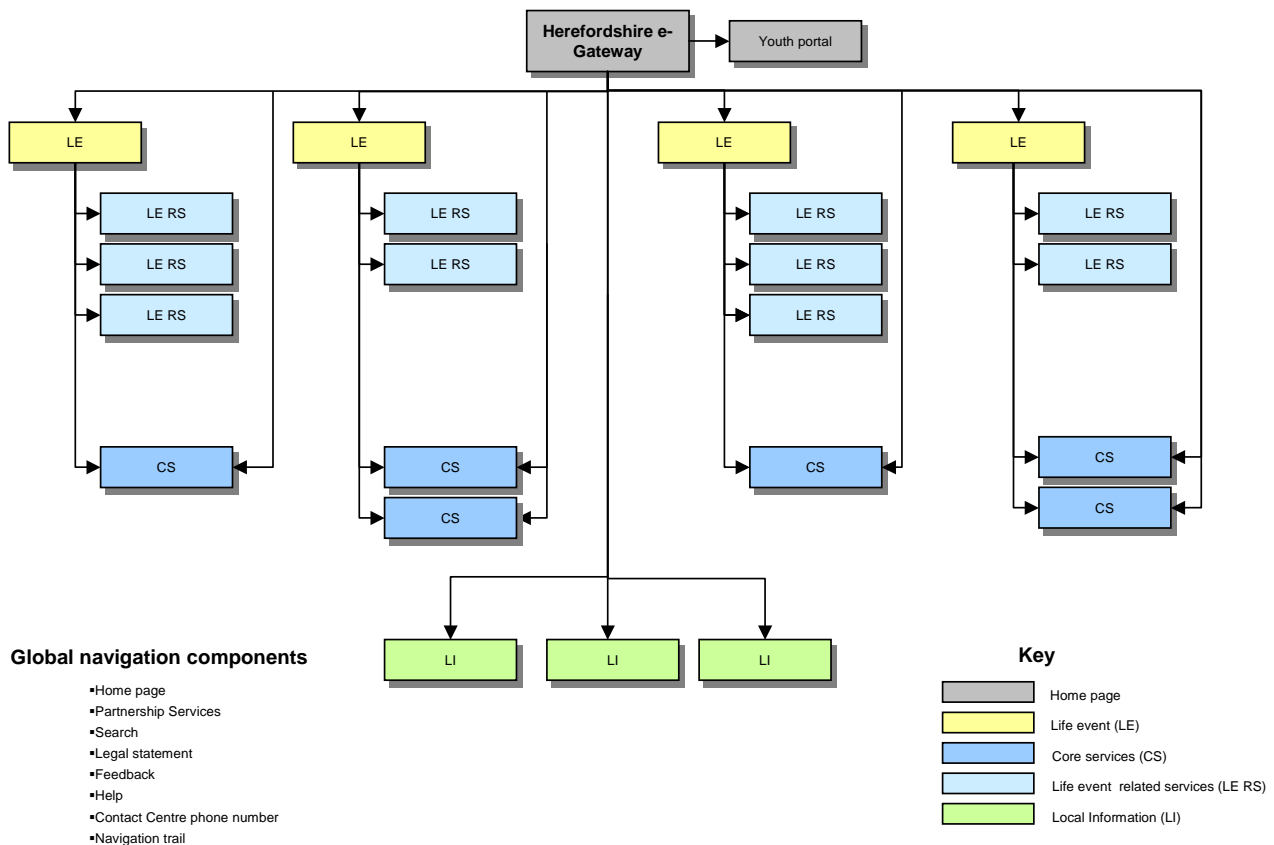

Figure 1.0 represents the top two levels of navigation within the e-Gateway. The e-Gateway should provide a link to the youth portal, which will have its own distinct content and site structure whilst remaining a component of the e-Gateway.

The e-Gateway top tier structure will have three elements.

- Life events
- Core services
- Local information

Each of these top tier components will have its own hierarchy of information based on the type of content to be included within the portal.

2.3 ACCESS TO PARTNERSHIP SERVICES

The site structure enables users to access online services via a minimum number of links. When users connect to the e-Gateway they will be able to access partnership service pages in one of three ways:

- Life events

Life event pages should have direct links from the e-Gateway home page. Each Life event section will include content around a range of key life events (to be defined) but may initially include content on birth and bereavement life events. Life events will provide the user with key 'what to do' information and advice for any given life event. Each life event page should also provide direct access to the key online services associated with that life event.

- Core services

Core services are essentially online services that are 'frequently used' for example applying for planning permission online or paying council tax.

Core services maybe associated with a number of life events but they should also be accessible directly from the home page. Enabling the user to access core services directly from the home page will help to ensure the minimum number of navigation steps are required to access key online services.

- All Services

The 'All Services' page will include a comprehensive list of all the partnerships services categorised under departments or function. The partnership services page will be accessible from a global navigation component displayed on every page within the e-Gateway.

2.4 ACCESS TO PARTNERSHIP AND LOCAL INFORMATION

The site structure provides the user with access to information about the partnership and the local area. Local information pages will be directly accessible from the e-Gateway home page. Second tier navigation may include pages for tourism, local business services and pages about the council structure and member details.

2.5 GLOBAL NAVIGATION COMPONENTS

Global navigation components will be displayed on every page they include:

- Home page provides the user with a link to the home page
- Partnership Services is a link that takes the user to a page displaying all the partnerships services. This may include services categorised by Partnership functions/departments and may include: benefits, Electoral & Registration services, Environmental services, Housing, Social Services, Business services and Education.
- Search will allows the user to search the e-Gateway content
- Legal statement is a required link that will display the appropriate legal statement
- Feedback will display a page that allows the user to send comments to the council
- Help provides a link to frequently asked questions and other tips on using the portal
- Contact phone number

2. e-Gateway Site Structure...

- Navigation trail will be a graphical representation of where the user is within the site hierarchy, it also enables the user to move to up a level within the site hierarchy

3. YOUTH PORTAL SITE STRUCTURE

3.1 APPROACH

The content requirements for the youth portal were gathered during workshop discussions. The conceptual model represents the high-level site structure, and is based on the following assumptions:

- The youth portal will be targeted at a different audience from that of the e-Gateway.
- The content areas will be based on topic areas relevant to the youth population.
- Topic areas should include content at both a national and local level.
- Users should be able to join discussion groups.
- Registration and logon functionality maybe required to access chat and discussion rooms.

3.2 FIGURE 2.0 - YOUTH PORTAL SITE STRUCTURE CONCEPTUAL DESIGN

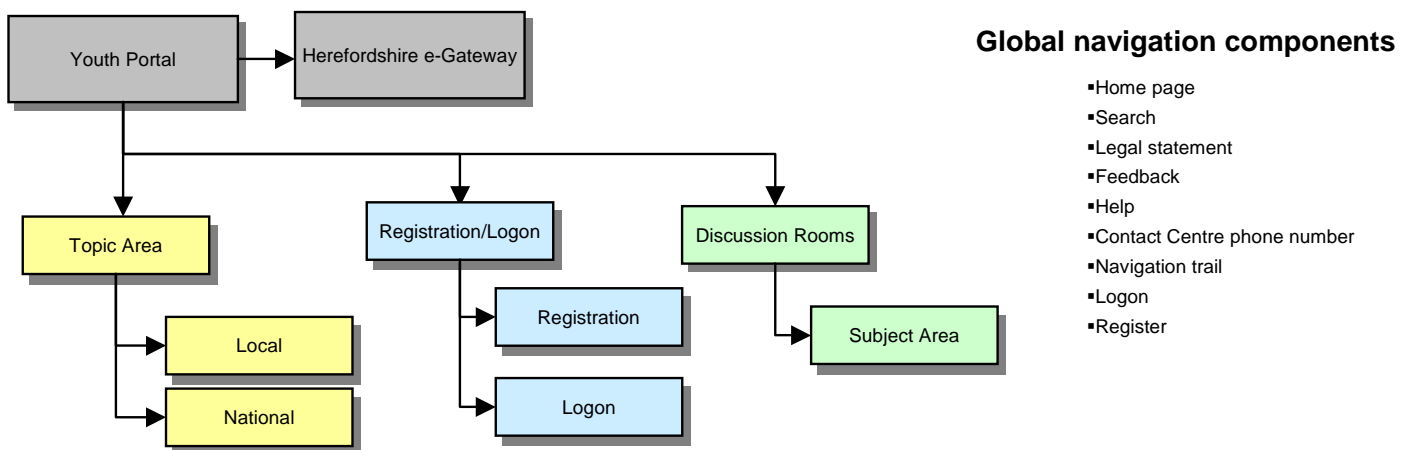

Figure 2.0 represents the top two levels of navigation for the youth portal. The top tier navigation of the youth portal will be dominated by topic area home pages. In addition logon/registration and direct access to the discussion room page should be available from the youth portal home page.

An analysis of the content requirements gathered from initial workshops (Appendix A) has identified the possible topic areas that could be included within the youth portal. The categorisations of initial content requirements are also captured within the e-gateway taxonomy documentation (Appendix B).

3.3 ACCESS TO TOPIC AREAS AND DISCUSSION ROOMS

Topic areas should be directly accessed from the youth portal home page and will include information at both a local and national level as well as information on how users can get involved locally and links to discussion threads on the topic area. The topic areas will also contain links to external sites where appropriate. Full access to the discussion rooms may require the users to register and or logon before they can create or add to an existing discussion thread.

3.4 GLOBAL NAVIGATION COMPONENTS

Global navigation components will be displayed on every page they include:

- Home page provides the user with a link to the home page
- Search will allows the user to search the e-Gateway content
- Legal statement is a required link that will display the appropriate legal statement
- Feedback will display a page that allows the user to send comments to the council
- Help provides a link to frequently asked questions and other tips on using the portal
- Contact phone number
- Navigation trail will be a graphical representation of where the user is within the site hierarchy. It enables the user to move up a level within the site hierarchy.
- If registration is required to use the discussion group functionality, the option to register should be available on every page. The option to logon from every page should also be available, unless the user is already logged on.
